The Essential Metrics That Every L&D Professional Needs to Measure

What metrics do modern learning and development leaders value and measure? And more importantly, are they focusing on the right ones?

Watch this on-demand webinar as Frances Kleven, LearnUpon's Manager of Customer Success, talks with Chief Learning Officer about where L&D leaders are going right and wrong when measuring training success, how to prioritize the right learning metrics, and the methods to embrace, so you can start calculating the impact of your training today.

Accompanying this webinar is a report on the results of a recent Chief Learning Officer survey to 1,400 learning professionals, asking them about the essential metrics used by the most mature L&D functions. This research snapshot uncovers and explores the most used and most successful measurement and metric practices of modern, data-driven L&D teams.

Watch this session, and download the research snapshot, to learn:

- The most popular metrics that L&D teams use to measure their learning's success
- How to evaluate the metrics your team should be measuring
- What is the no. 1 metric you should prioritize, and how to measure it