

2023 Global DevSecOps Report:

Productivity & Efficiency Within Reach

Productivity and efficiency on your mind (or roadmap)? According to our survey, you're not alone. Nearly half of respondents told us they are planning DevOps process optimizations to improve productivity and efficiency this year. In the second installment of our 2023 Global DevSecOps Report Series, we dig into the current state of productivity, efficiency, and development velocity for organizations — and what organizations are doing to improve the way their teams and software delivery processes work.

Read the report to learn:

- What organizations are planning to do this year to improve their efficiency
- The practices and technologies helping organizations deploy more often, improve employee retention, and more
- What organizations releasing software faster than a year ago have in common