

How to engage and motivate employees in a hybrid environment

Whether your employees are in the office or working remotely, they need to be able to do their work effectively. But hybrid work still poses a challenge for CIOs and IT leaders. Employees need to be able to communicate and collaborate with colleagues from afar. They need to be engaged with their work and connected to the organization's broader goals, even if they aren't physically in the office. If you're looking for new solutions to engage and enable employees in a hybrid work environment, get key insights from Gartner®, on:

- Leadership approaches that directly address the challenges caused by hybrid work
- How to create an environment where "intentional collaboration" thrives
- Why empathy and recognition matter, especially in hybrid environments

Gartner.

4 Ways to Engage and Motivate Employees in a Hybrid Environment

14 August 2023 - ID G00777792 - 10 min read

By Daniel Sanchez Reina, Nathanael Callan, and 1 more

---

Making hybrid working effective and productive is still a challenge for many enterprises and employees. CIOs should make sure that their IT leaders incorporate four new leadership actions to engage and motivate employees.